Recommendations to the City Council

Drawing from the discussions documented in the meeting minutes throughout 2023, the Animal Shelter Advisory Committee (ASAC) has formulated several specific policy recommendations to present to the City Council. These recommendations stem from the committee's proactive engagement with various stakeholders, thorough review of existing ordinances, and concerted efforts to address pressing issues affecting animal welfare and public safety within the community.

Through rigorous analysis and collaborative dialogue, ASAC has identified key areas where policy interventions are needed to enhance the overall well-being of animals and promote responsible pet ownership practices. These recommendations reflect the committee's commitment to advocating for effective policies that align with its mission of supporting animal welfare and advocating for the rights and responsibilities of companion animal ownership.

By presenting these policy recommendations to the City Council, ASAC aims to catalyze meaningful action, foster collaboration among stakeholders, and effect positive change that will benefit animals, pet owners, and the broader community. Through ongoing dialogue and partnership with city officials, ASAC endeavors to shape policies that reflect the values and priorities of the community while advancing the cause of animal welfare in the City of El Paso.

1) More Robust Enforcement of Breeding Ordinances

ASAC recommends amendments to the current ordinances and/or greater enforcement of existing regulations to bolster enforcement mechanisms concerning backyard breeding and irresponsible pet ownership. This includes increased attention, expanded public awareness campaigns, and additional resources for enforcement agencies to combat harmful breeding practices that produce more and more animals.

2) Increase City's Investment in Spay & Neuter Programs

ASAC recommends increased funding for both EPAS and partnerships with local veterinary clinics to expand access to low-cost spay/neuter services. This request aligns with efforts to manage the pet population, reduce shelter intake, and promote responsible pet ownership. It also addresses economic inequities affecting veterinary access across El Paso County.

3) Expand Support for Proactive Disease Control Measures

ASAC recommends expanded initiatives to support proactive disease control measures, such as expanded vaccination programs and disease surveillance. This includes resources to prevent the spread of infectious diseases among animals at EPAS (which posed significant challenges in 2023) and to mitigate the impact of outbreaks on animal populations across the Borderland community, including at partner rescues.

4) Broaden Efforts to Bring On Additional Veterinarians at EPAS

ASAC recommends that the City take greater steps to address the post-COVID shortage of veterinarians, including by exploring options to certify veterinarians from Mexico, implementing broader and more targeted outreach in the veterinarian hiring process, and considering competitive new approaches to attract veterinarians to EPAS where they are sorely needed to ensure appropriate standards of care.

5) Develop New Public Education Campaigns & Adoption Messaging

ASAC recommends an expansion of public education campaigns on responsible pet ownership, animal welfare, and the benefits of adopting pets from shelters. This includes funding for PSA campaigns in both traditional and new media, community outreach events, and educational programs targeting schools, neighborhoods, and social media platforms.

6) Expedite Successful Completion & Opening of Westside Location

ASAC recommends that the City take all possible steps to expedite the adaptive reuse of the former Morehead Middle School site on the Westside into the new EPAS shelter location and prioritize the removal of animals from the 'Tails at the Times' temporary shelter located behind City Hall. The opening of the new facility will offer significant expansion of the City's total sheltering capacity, providing much needed decompression of the Main EPAS Shelter, which is over capacity.
